Dear Dick:

In connection with Jack Lyman's letter of 11 February, a copy of which you forwarded to us on 21 February, we are sending over some reproduced copies of eight unclassified items which you may consider worth forwarding to the Research Service Centre. Because of the urgency of Jack's request, we have limited our collection to items concerned with the first two categories mentioned in his letter. Naturally, we have not attempted to collect USIA publications, which we believe have already been sent out to the Centre.

The list of items we are forwarding is as follows:

1. "A Policy For the West," by Robert Strausz-Hupe, in Yale Review, Vol. XLVI, No. 2, December 1956.
2. "The Paradoxes of Nationalism," by Hans J. Morgenthau, in Yale Review, Vol. XLVI, No. 4, June 1957.
3. "Problems of Economic Development," by Everett D. Hawkins, in Current History, Vol. 33, No. 192, August 1957.
4. "Sixty-four Economies in Search of a Policy," by Sidney Hyma, in The Reporter, Vol. 17, No. 6, 17 October 1957.
5. "The Limits of Limited War," by Robert Strausz-Hupe, in The Reporter, Vol. 17, No. 9, 28 November 1957.
6. "Where Do We Go From Here?," by Lester B. Pearson, in The Reporter, Vol. 17, No. 10, 12 December 1957.
7. "Arab Neutralism and Bandung," by Georgiana G. Stevens, in Middle East Journal, Vol. 11, No. 2, Spring 1957.
8. "Can the West Regain the Initiative?," by Barbara Ward, in Atlantic Monthly, Vol. 201, No. 2, February 1958.

We note that Department of State Instruction No. A-72, dated 20 September 1957, indicated that among the periodicals pouched to the SEATO Research Service Centre were included four quarterly issues of Vol. 35 of Foreign Affairs. Among the numerous pertinent articles published in those issues, attention might be called to "Nationalism: Antidote to Communism," by Habib Bourguiba, in Vol. 35, No. 4, July 1957. Another article which might be useful is Barbara Ward's "The Great Challenge is Not the Sputniks," in The New York Times Magazine, 23 February 1958, of which the Research Service Centre has a copy.

Lastly, it occurs to us that Current History might be a good magazine to subscribe to for the Research Service Centre, since it regularly covers political and economic problems affecting the whole world, with occasional special issues devoted to specific areas.

Sincerely,
